TO THE CLASS OF 1983:

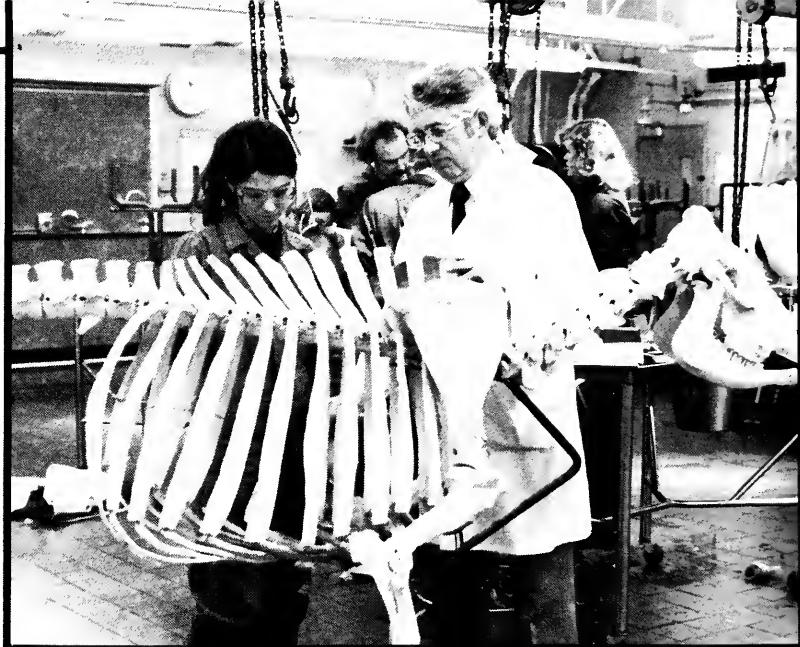

It was August 30, 1979, when you, the Class of 1983, first formally gathered in Lynn Hall as a group to start down the road leading to a worthy objective, the D.V.M. degree. You faced the unknown future, accepting the challenges, the rewards, the stresses, the joys, the hard work, and the fun which lay ahead — firm in the belief that the end would justify the means.

Having reached that objective, you now start down another road in pursuit of another objective — success — as a member of our profession. With the same attitude, the same resolve, and the same dedication demonstrated in reaching the first objective, you'll be equally successful in reaching the second. We, the faculty, join in congratulating you on a job well done, in welcoming you to the ranks of an honorable profession, and in wishing for you the same enjoyment and satisfaction which we experience from the work we are permitted to do. Godspeed!

Anamnesis Party Jokes

+ There were two dogs chasing a female greyhound that was in heat. These two old boys weren't in very good shape and about two hrs. into the chase one turned to the other and said in a gasp, "Man, ain't this a bitch?" To which his buddy replied, "It sure as hell better be!"

+ A pet owner calls up his veterinarian one night and says, "Doc, my dogs were mating and now they are stuck together. How can I stop this?" The veterinarian promptly replies, "Hang up and let me call you back in 5 minutes. I'm sure it will work, because it worked for me."

+ An older couple in a small town noticed their cat wasn't looking well. The wife prevailed on her husband to visit the vet the next time he was in town. Doc was getting on in years and was slightly hard of hearing. Consequently, he misunderstood the man's description. Thinking the animal was a calf he said this condition was common at this time of year and that a quart of castor oil should be given. The man dutifully went home, caught the kitty by the scruff of the neck, and got in a quart of oil. Several days later he saw old Doc down at the general store. "How is that calf of yours?" "Oh, Doc, you don't hear so well. I said C-A-T." "Good God, man, you didn't give him the castor oil, did you?!" "Course I did you told me to." "Well, how is the little thing?" "I don't know, last time I saw him he was headed over the hill with five buddies — two digging, two burying, and one looking for new ground."

+ A man went looking for a place to board his horse. The first place was beautiful but wanted $200 a month and said that he had to haul off his own manure. No bargain! So he found a less attractive place for $100/mo. that also required him to haul off his own manure. No bargain. He finally found a place for $25 a month and asked if he had to haul off his own manure. The stockmaster replied, "Mister, for $25 a month there won't be any manure!"

+ An animal science professor was conducting a lab on Bovine mating behavior. He led the bull past a heifer in heat but the bull didn't blink an eye. So he turned the bull around for another pass but still the bull didn't move a hair in the heifer's direction. The prof promptly pulled out a corn cob and vigorously rubbed the bull on top of its head. The bull went straight for the heifer and "got the job done" (as Dr. Runnels would say). A girl in the back row of the class was heard saying "I guess that's why there are so many bald-headed men around."

+ A large Bengal tiger walked into a bar and ordered a double martini. He drank it down in one gulp and ordered another. As the bartender was preparing the second drink a hooker who frequented the bar came in and stood at the bar a few feet away from the tiger. After finishing his second double martini the tiger walked over to the hooker and in three bites consumed her completely. The tiger walked back to his stool, sat down and began yawning, saying, "I don't know what's come over me, I'm so sleepy." To this the bartender responded, "It must have been the bar-bitch-you-ate."

+ An old and a young bull are standing on a hill overlooking a valley of heifers. The young one says, "Let's run down there and breed some of those heifers." To which the older bull replies, "Let's walk down and breed them all."

+ Vet school is like a bitch in heat: when you run they all chase you, and when you stop ...

+ Did you hear about the new book on semen collection techniques from the boar? It's entitled "Sex without Gilt".

+ Why can't elephants use sheep for tampons any more? Because of the toxic flock syndrome.

ANAMNESIS refers to the faculty of memory or recall. This book took on that name for obvious reasons. We (the staff) have attempted to preserve this year from time's erosion. We have shied from the written. Instead, we have encouraged our staff to let their cameras record the Anamnesis of 1982-83. You know what they say about a picture and so many words.

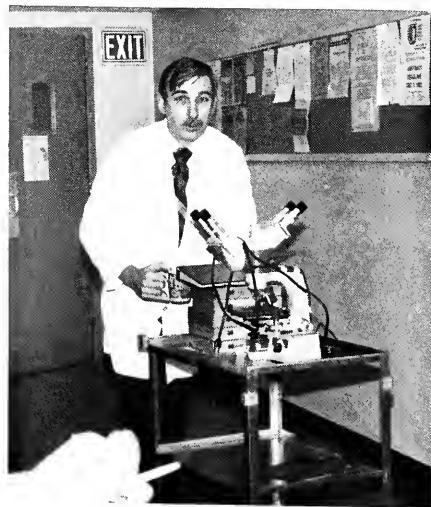

Our staff is a rather select group of people from the veterinary school who knew they wanted to help ... in some way ... but not too much ... "you know, I do have exams and clinics." Anyway, they are a special group of people who have been lots of fun to work with.

Producing this book required more time than many of us had to offer. We all had the same obligations that you did. We all needed 25 hours per day. Your Anamnesis crew found that twenty-fifth hour ... for you.

"Just call me Jack."

Of seeming recent vintage is the concept of the human/animal bond. Not so! The bond between man and animals is eternal and is focused on poignantly in The Book, Genesis, Chapter I. Dominion to some implies a relationship which amounts to exploitation. Our interpretation should be one of interdependence and this demands a very special kind of bond. Because of who we are, we are privileged, more than others, to exemplify this unique relationship. It is an opportunity we should not miss. It is a responsibility we dare not shirk.

Dean Jack J. Stockton

CONGRATULATIONS & WELCOME CLASS OF '83

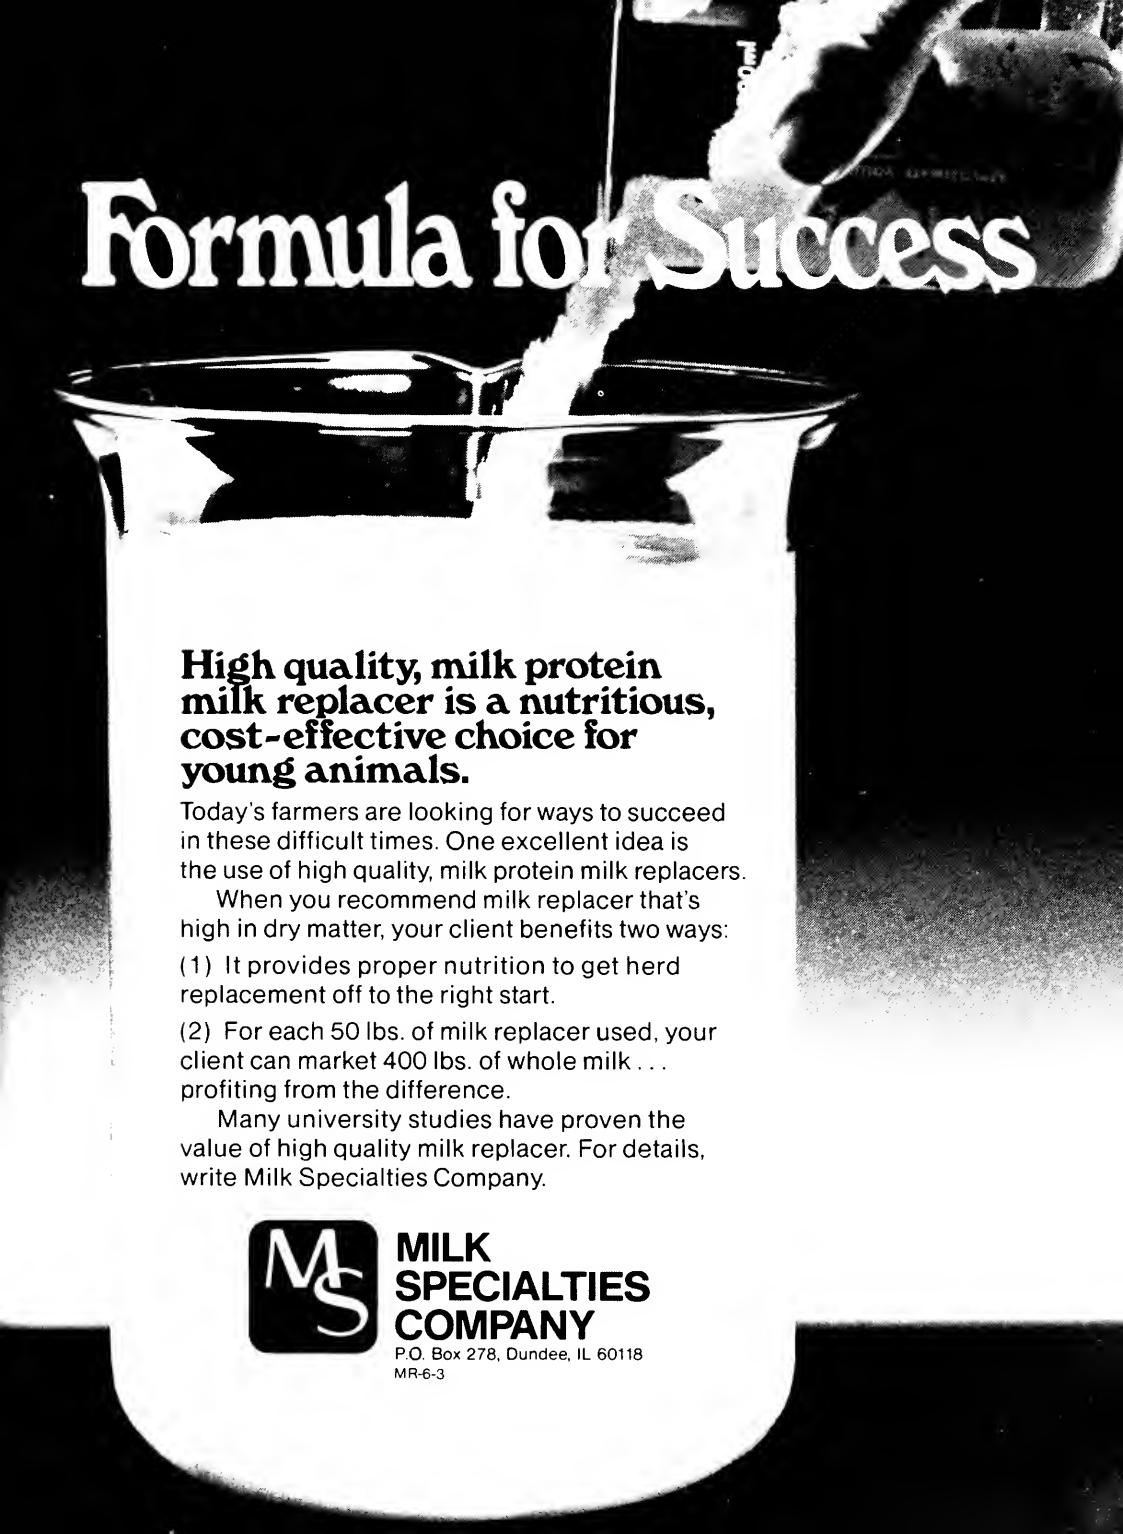

The Indiana Veterinary Medical Association wishes to extend a warm and hearty welcome to you who are about to become a member of the family of veterinarians, and we wish you the success and happiness that is due after all the years of hard work and study.

You are entering a great profession and following in the footsteps of some tremendous people. We can only hope that it will be as good to and for you as it has been for all of us.

Like any other worthy endeavor in life, you will receive back from it in direct proportion to the time and energy you put into it. Graduation day is not an end but a beginning. Your time of learning is just now really starting. Through the years, if you will remain faithful and true to your profession, it will give you the rewards and feeling of self-fulfillment that you want and deserve.

J. Richard Jones, D.V.M.

Formula for Success

High quality, milk protein milk replacer is a nutritious, cost-effective choice for young animals.

Today's farmers are looking for ways to succeed in these difficult times. One excellent idea is the use of high quality, milk protein milk replacers.

When you recommend milk replacer that's high in dry matter, your client benefits two ways:

- (1) It provides proper nutrition to get herd replacement off to the right start.
- (2) For each 50 lbs. of milk replacer used, your client can market 400 lbs. of whole milk . . . profiting from the difference.

Many university studies have proven the value of high quality milk replacer. For details, write Milk Specialties Company.

QUICK QUIZ

What should you look for first in a canine parvovirus vaccine?

Efficacy. Vaccine must protect against challenge.

Titer levels may be considered a measure of efficacy, but challenge is the real test! 'Vanguard' efficacy studies* showed 100% of vaccinated dogs protected against challenge that produced severe clinical signs in all unvaccinated dogs.

Duration. Vaccine must protect for more than a few weeks.

In a test, Norden's MLV CPV parvovirus vaccine provided protection as long as 1 year after vaccination.*

Safety. Vaccine must not cause reactions in patient.

In an extensive 7-state field trial study, 1,800 doses of 'Vanguard' were administered with exceptional safety.

Immunogenic. Vaccine antigens must not be immunosuppressive.

In Norden tests, no significant difference in the levels of serum antibodies was recorded between dogs vaccinated with 'Vanguard' DA₂PL + CPV and those given the same vaccine without the CPV antigen.

Convenience. Vaccine must not interfere with normal schedules.

'Vanguard' is available as single antigen or in combinations to fit a variety of vaccination programs.
